LEADERSHIP PATTERNS THAT DRIVE HIGH PERFORMANCE

Leading People, Teams, and Yourself in Today's Landscape

THE BIG IDEA

Most leaders are surrounded by advice but lack a clear way to recognize the repeatable patterns that actually drive great leadership and high performance. After interviewing more than 500 of America's top leaders – from Fortune 500 CEOs to founders of household name companies to four-star generals and admirals – Adam has identified the patterns that show up again and again in how the best leaders think, operate, and lead across different environments. In this keynote, Adam breaks down those patterns and brings them to life through stories, examples, and practical frameworks that help people consistently show up and lead with clarity, confidence, and impact.

ATTENDEES WILL LEARN:

- 1 What drives successful leadership and high performance
Practical insights they can put into action immediately, regardless of level or environment, to deepen their self-awareness and become more effective in how they lead, influence, and impact others
- 2 A three-step process for identifying and activating their "leadership superpower," the heartbeat of high-performance leadership

After this presentation, attendees will be better equipped to lead people, teams, and themselves in today's landscape and drive better outcomes across their organizations.

"Adam brought incredible value to our event. His practical insights into leadership and strategy sparked meaningful discussions and reflection and his approachable and engaging style made his sessions enjoyable and impactful for everyone involved."

KEYNOTE TOPIC OVERVIEW

LEADERSHIP PATTERNS THAT DRIVE HIGH PERFORMANCE

Building the Foundation for High-Performance Leadership

THE BIG IDEA

In the early stages of your journey, it is virtually impossible to know what actually drives success or how to get there. You're surrounded by advice, expectations, and noise, but lack a clear way to truly understand what success looks like for you and how to consistently move toward it. After interviewing more than 500 of America's top leaders – from Fortune 500 CEOs to founders of household name companies to four-star generals and admirals – Adam has identified the leadership patterns behind how the most successful people achieve breakthrough success and how they lead themselves and others along the way. In this keynote, Adam breaks down those patterns and brings them to life through stories, examples, and practical frameworks that help individuals define success on their terms and take ownership of how they lead their lives and lead others.

ATTENDEES WILL LEARN:

- 1 What drives breakthrough success and high-performance leadership
- 2 A three-step process for identifying and activating their "leadership superpower," the compass for personal, professional, and leadership success
- 3 The secret to excelling in not only one vocation, but across multiple roles, jobs, and careers

After this presentation, attendees will have a better understanding of what success looks like for them and will be better equipped to lead their own lives and lead others.

"Adam's ability to connect with the audience by sharing interesting, yet practical, stories from some of the world's best leaders was phenomenal. We'd definitely have Adam again."
